INTRODUCTION

C.O.I.M. S.p.A. - CHIMICA ORGANICA INDUSTRIALE MILANESE - operates in the chemical speciality industry and, in particular, in polyurethane specialities.

The Company is careful to respect and apply principles of correctness and integrity, which represent one of the key factors of its business success and which underpin the operations of the company and the companies of the COIM Group.

The aim of this Code of Ethics is to provide clear and transparent principles and guidelines which must inform all activities of C.O.I.M. S.p.A. and of the COIM group, guiding the conduct of its employees and everyone having dealings with the aforementioned companies.

C.O.I.M. S.p.A. intends for this Code of Ethics to serve as a fundamental element of its Corporate Compliance Model and in view thereof, in drawing up this Code, account was taken of the Guidelines developed by Confindustria for constructing Corporate Compliance Models that must be adopted in relation to the prevention of the crimes indicated in Italian Legislative Decree 8 June 2001 no. 231, and which concern the rules on corporate liability. In preparing this Code of Ethics, account was also taken of the Ten Principles adopted by the United Nations Global Compact, which, in turn, draw upon the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Labour Organization's Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, and the United Nations Convention Against Corruption.

CHAPTER I

In running the business and in all decisions relating thereto, the persons to whom this Code of Ethics applies must act with impartiality in the Company's best interest, making decisions with professional integrity and objectivity in accordance with objective and neutral assessment criteria.

In addition, the Company undertakes to ensure that no discrimination occurs in the workplace based on age, gender, sexual orientation, disability, race, language, nationality, political or trade union opinions, religious beliefs or other personal characteristics not relating to work.

The Company, moreover, adopts criteria of merit and development of the skills, competences and potential of individuals in its staff selection and management policies.

C.O.I.M. S.p.A. provides continuous training activities, along with training and information courses for new recruits.

To adjust the employee's professionalism to any major changes made by the Company, C.O.I.M. S.p.A. provides training and training updates to all employees involved in that process, such as unit or area operators. Major changes means the introduction of new work equipment or machines, new technologies, new hazardous chemical agents or significant organisational changes (i.e. a transition to a continuous production cycle).

With a view to ensuring that the accounting data meet the requirements of truthfulness, completeness and transparency, adequate and complete supporting documentation of the activity completed is kept for each transaction, to allow for:

- the recording in the accounts;
- the identification of the characteristics and reasons underlying that transaction;
- the reconstruction of the decision-making and authorisation process.

Each employee, insofar as he/she is responsible, acts in such a way as to ensure that all information relating to the Company's business operations is duly and promptly recorded in the accounts.

Each accounting entry reflects the records of the related supporting documentation, which is carefully filed and stored so that it is easily available.

In addition, all information and data handled while discharging work duties and tasks will be treated with the utmost confidentiality.

10. PREVENTION OF CONFLICT OF INTERESTS

In conducting their activity, all Recipients must avoid conflict of interests situations.

In that respect, each employee is asked to contribute personally to maintaining workplace safety and behaving responsibly to ensure his/her own safety and the safety of others.

In general, each worker is required to learn about his/her work environment, the machines, systems and substances used, the work procedures, and the health and safety risks so as to understand what is being handled/operated and what may occur.

In managing its business operations and initiatives, the Company is committed to considering essential environmental requirements and minimising the negative impact of its operations on the environment.

To that end, the Company, in full respect of applicable environmental laws, is particularly attentive to the following aspects:

- promotion of activities and procedures that are compatible with the environment through the use of criteria and advanced technologies of environmental protection, energy efficiency and sustainable use of resources;

Based upon principles 7 to 9 of the Ten Principles adopted by the United Nations Global Compact, the Company adopts a prudential approach to the environment; promoting greater awareness of environmental protection and encouraging the development and dissemination of “environmentally friendly” technologies. The Company also combats any behaviour that may lead, even through carelessness, to the incorrect management of its operations with regard to the environment, with the possible risk of environmental pollution or environmental disaster. In the event of any pollution or environmental disaster, the Company undertakes to clean up and remediate the affected areas at once.

13. PREVENTION OF MONEY LAUNDERING AND SELF-LAUNDERING

The Company runs its operations in full compliance with applicable laws, combating the phenomena of money laundering and self-laundering.

To this end, the Recipients avoid implementing suspicious transactions from the perspective of correctness and transparency and, as part of the various relationships established on behalf and in the interest of the Company, they undertake to verify the reliability and integrity of its business partners. Moreover, financial resources are managed on the basis of principles:

- based upon the substantial separation of functions, so that all expenditure is requested, paid out and checked by independent functions or persons, to which, in addition, no other responsibilities are assigned that may determine any potential conflict of interests and finally;
- based upon the traceability and transparency of cash flows within the Company and external payments, so that it is always possible to reconstruct all of the Company's financial transactions.

14. PROTECTION OF COMPETITION

In the awareness that a sound and fair system of competition contributes to continuous improvement and development, the Company abides by applicable competition laws and refrains from implementing or incentivising any actions that may amount to forms of unfair competition.

To that end, the Company prohibits any conduct aimed, in general, at duplicating or reproducing, in any form, the work of others, without authorisation.

CHAPTER III

RELATIONSHIPS WITH THIRD PARTIES

18. RELATIONSHIPS WITH THE PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND INDEPENDENT ADMINISTRATIVE AUTHORITIES

Relationships with the Public Administrations, with Independent Administrative Authorities and, in any case, with any public bodies, both in Italy and abroad, are based on strict compliance with the applicable provisions of law, together with principles of transparency, integrity and correctness.

In relationships with the Public Administration and Independent Administrative Authorities, the Company does not improperly influence public officials or public servants who negotiate or decide on its behalf.

The Company bases its relationships with the Public Administration and with Independent Administrative Authorities, or public servants, on strict compliance with the applicable legal and regulatory requirements, and pays particular attention to ensuring that the integrity or reputation of C.O.I.M. S.p.A. is not jeopardised in any way.

More specifically, the Company prohibits the following behaviours, which are contrary to the principles of this Code of Ethics:

- forcing or inciting third parties to give or promise money or other favours to public officials or their relatives;

Those rules also apply to relationships with the judicial authority, its representatives, auxiliaries and consultants.

19. RELATIONSHIPS WITH CUSTOMERS, SUPPLIERS AND PARTNERS

The Company bases its relationships with customers on the full satisfaction of their needs, with the aim of establishing a solid relationship based on values of correctness, honesty, efficiency and professionalism. C.O.I.M. S.p.A. draws on principles of simplicity, clearness and completeness, avoiding the use of misleading and/or improper practices in preparing communications sent to customers.

The Company manages relationships with its suppliers and other business partners by ensuring a professional, loyal and fair approach, encouraging continuous collaborations and solid and lasting relationships built on trust, refraining from any conduct that may be construed as an attempt to secure favourable treatment for the Company.

In business relations with third parties, any conduct that may undermine the Company's image is prohibited, along with the giving of any tangible gifts, benefits (both direct and indirect), gratuities and acts of courtesy and hospitality, except when the same are strictly seen as etiquette and good manners or are in any case unlikely to be construed as an attempt to obtain favourable treatment.

In general, any legal relationship with customers, suppliers and other business partners is formalised in writing and, if required by the type of relationship established, subject to verifying in advance the objective and subjective requirements established by law.

Therefore, C.O.I.M. S.p.A. does not allow any form of payment or granting of benefits to customers, suppliers or other business partners not strictly deriving from a contractual obligation and, as such, regulated by a contractual agreement.

The Company does not promote political parties or trade union organisations and it does not provide them with contributions of any kind, neither directly nor indirectly.

C.O.I.M. S.p.A. condemns any form of participation by the Recipients in associations whose objectives are prohibited by law and are contrary to the rules of public order or the principles of this Code of Ethics; it strongly repudiates conduct aimed even just at assisting the activity or programme of criminal organisations, including when that facilitating conduct is necessary to obtain a utility.
